Worship of Beauty.

Millions of dollars are paid out each year for preparations that will smooth wrinkles, remove moles and darken gray hairs. Women don't want to gray hairs. Women don't want to think they are growing old They are willing to give any price for anything that will have the semblance of perpetuating youth. It has been so from time immemorial, and will be so until the crack of doom. It is natural. And men are not in the least whit different from women in this particular. The men buy their hair dyes and pads just as women do. They are not in posias women do. They are not in posi-tion to point a finger at anybody. With it all we are not the artifices that make for beauty rather desirable than otherwise? Are they reprehensible in the slightest degree? There is no ble in the slightest degree? There is no good regson in the world why a woman at 50 should be stooped and wrinkled and "tippety." Look at Sarah Barnhardt and Ellen Terry. Both are more than 50 years of age. Neither has a wrinkle. Both are grandmothers. Neither is old They have taken care of themselves. They have not scorned "beauty" recipes. They have scrubbed on face cream and stuck "wrinkle" bed on face cream and stuck "wrinkle pasters" on their faces from time to time as occasion might seem to de-mand.—Savannah News.
